“ Probably one of the best friends I will ever have the privilege of knowing, a true good person, rare in this world now. I will remember our basketball days on Albert St park blaring Chili Peppers forever. You are missed, even if we lost touch, you are a good friend still.

“ How sad I was to receive this news. I will ever be grateful for Jamie's patience with life and his positive outlook on things. The last time I saw him, he requested a Priesthood Blessing. The blessing promised that he would be sustained as long as life was sweet and there was work for him to do. While we will miss him, we can be comforted by our memories and the legacy of his generous and loving soul.

“ Not really sure what to say to my friend; just so many tender feelings and thoughts. I will miss him. I will treasure the time we had together discussing things from food to faith. My prayers and thoughts are with his wife and children and all of his family. I consider it a gift to have known him. It's so good to know he will continue his great works of faith on the other side of the veil.

“ Jamie was a very good understanding friend. He was my rock and roll buddy on base guitar, my rock concert companion, my spiritual calm in a stormy world, he was my comedian who always found something to laugh about in any situation. I will miss the next few years when we are apart but look forward to catching up later, and maybe playing a couple of tunes as well. Rest well Jamie (if they let you), and see you later.

“ Jamie was and is one of the most humble, kind, and caring people that I have known. Although we no longer can associate with him in this life, I have no doubt that he continues to serve others with his sweet spirit in the next life. His life accomplishments are a credit to his family that I love and adore. May the knowledge of the Plan of Salvation bring comfort to all family members.

“ Jamie was and is one of the most humble, loving and caring people I have ever known. His sweet spirit lives on and although we will no longer associate with him on this earth, I have no doubt that he will continue in his sweet and humble way to bless the lives of those in the spirit world. Jamie's accomplishments are a credit to his family whom I love dearly. May you be blessed with the peace and comfort that comes from knowing the Plan of Salvation.
